MIAMI MEETS MILANO

Jacqueline Gallicot Madar

In Jacqueline Gallicot Madar's works there is a strong temporal element given by the fragmentary and washed out signs, which give the idea of the flow of water on its surface. The artist thus represents the passage of time. The marked and almost childlike traits for their apparent simplicity, repeated several times, are part of that synthesis of forms which sees the representation of human faces and thoughtful, melancholic expressions, remaining immanent. Jacqueline gives substance to the colour, which allows subjects to become stones that the river of time can not move, nor take away from memory.
